K·home

Very often, in our homes, a question is recurring:

What can I have for lunch?

Starting from the problem of food waste, lack of time and creativity due to our chaotic lives, we developed K·home, an app which suggests recipes based on ingredients you have at home: you can select different filters depending on your demand.

In this way, food waste is reduced, so as the financial waste, thanks to a database rich in recipes!

Users will be able to interact among each other and with us thanks to the creation of a user account, which will allow them to share comments, pictures and videos, creating an authentic community!

With K·home, cooking and reducing wastefulness has never been so fun!
