Research activity description: Action-Research to implement a web-based Social Health Family Learning (FLSS) that is a specific form of group-based therapeutic education developed by the CRISS-UNIVPM. Web-based FLSS intends to enhance patient's/ family's skills and competences for the management of chronic diseases in situations where access to healthcare facilities is made difficult by the Covid-19 emergency. The aim is to reach and support chronic patients and their families in order to foster their health literacy, their empowerment and their ability to cope with the self-management of chronic conditions.
