

Tax ID code

The tax identification code is necessary in Italy on a number of different occasions, for example when opening a bank account or to stipulate a rental contract.

How to get it

Before departure, citizens residing abroad can apply for a tax code at the Italian Consulate or Embassy in their Country of residence.

In case you have not obtained a tax code via this method, you can send an email directly to UNIVPM's Students and Right to Study Office: dirittoallostudio@univpm.it. You will need to attach:

- a) the AA4/8 form, available on the Revenue Agency website, completed and signed by the applicant;
- b) copy of a valid identity document.

Only identity documents recognized by the Italian authorities will be accepted, i.e.:

- for EU citizens, the identity card of the Country of origin;
- for non-EU citizens, the passport with relevant visa (where required) or the residence permit.

Documents will be sent to the Revenue Agency and the Students and Right to Study Office will send you the tax code attribution certificate by email.
